BETTING ON THE WEATHER. A Man Who Mas Challenged Gen-

Bince the discontinuance of the special weather bulletins for the District of Colum his by order of General Hasen, Signal Officer, the people of Washington have had to depend on the predictions issued for the Middle Atlantic States, and quite often,

Middle Atlantic States, and quite often, when cold, disagreeable weather would be predicted in these bulletins, the weather at Washington would be just the reverse. Though, if the predicted weather struck any part of the Middle Atlantic States, the prediction would be claimed as verified.

Captain John I, Hall, of No. 400 Thirteenth street southwest, is perhaps one of the oldest river men in the District. He has made careful observation of the weather for this city for the past thirty years, and has the reputation of the immortal Vennor for his local predictions, which, in a number of instances, were very correct. Captain Hall was found sitting at a table to the dining-room at his home in South Washington by a reporter of The Chirtic this merning, and after the usual greetings had passed between them the reporter asked what kind of weather he thought would attend the unveiling and Inauguration coremoules.

"Young man." repoiled the Captain."

extend the unveiling and inauguration coremoules.

"Young man," replied the Captain, "I am afraid you will bring me into notoriety by giving my opinion of the weather through the columns of a newspaper, and I would prefar to say nothing."

"I understand that a short time ago you challenged General Hazen to predict the weather for this city more accurately than you do. Is that true?"

"Yes," replied the Captain; "through the columns of THE CERTIC I offered to bet General Hazen $100 that I could predict the weather in the District of Columbia more accurately than he. I am not opinient by any means, but I am still willing to make that wager."

"Did General Hazen secont the chalto make that wager."
"Did General Hazen accept the chal-

o; that 'Is, at least, I heard nothing "To-day is quite cloudy; do you think we will have snow?"

"Yes," responded the Captain; "we will have snow before 12 o'clock to-night."
"How about the weather up to the 21st

'Well, I will tell you. We will not have much clear or fair weather up to the 15th of March. We will have a great deal of wet, cloudy weather, with snow, up to that date. An early spring will follow. February 21 will not be altogether a very pleasant day, but will be fair enough for all to enjoy themselves in the great demonstration. March 4 will be a day long to be remembered. Bad omens are predicted for that day. It will be cold, blustering, damp; probably rain or snow." prebably rain or snow."

The following summary by B. K. Pisin's Co., St. Cloud building, Ninth and F streets, shows the course of the Chicago grain and provision market up to 1 p. m. to-day: 0. H. L. C.

B. K. Plain & Co., St. Cloud building, re-elved the following from Fleming & Boyden wheat opened strong; some prominent local bears, who had overed, builling to sell again, but dull and easy, dablos outpiled with advices of free movements in Northwest, and decreasing demand for flour, with taik of some of the Minneapolls miles shutting down, too much for the market. Corn and oats also easier, and the tendency of all grain markets seems lower.

Provisions strong and active; shorts covering and country as usual buying freely at he advance. Goly 20,000 hogs are expected houday and 120,000 next week: 150 cars of wheat and 560 cars of corn.
